The training series for new volunteers starts in September. The training consists of 9 half day sessions on Tuesday mornings from September through January. New volunteers will accompany and observe experienced volunteers on several field trips before they are asked to lead their own group of four to five students.

A final graduation class and luncheon will be held after the training sessions have been completed. Bay Shore Studies volunteers commit to leading 10 or more two hour, low tide field trips during each full year teaching season (December through early June).

Please sign me up for Bay Shore Studies Volunteer Training. I will take the required classes, beach walks and training tours. My $65 fee for the course is enclosed.
